Texas Power & Light Given Exemption From Restricting Electricity

Texas Power & Light Company, as well as other Texas power companies, has been granted exemption from the recent order of the War Production Board restricting the use of electricity to relieve a critical shortage of "coal or other scarce fuels" in other parts of the nation.

Such a curtailment of electricity is not necessary here because the steam power plants of the T. P & L. Company do not use "coal or other scarce fuels" but depend on natural gas for fuel.

The generating facilities and far-flung transmission system of Texas Power & Light Company not only save this area from curtailment of service but also enable the Company to produce additional power and to gather all other available electric energy from Government-owned hydro-electric projects and from privately-owned plants from as far away as the Gulf Coast to be transmitted by the replacement method to the areas in the North and East where the present emergency exists.

Since its organization in 1912, when cheap, dependable electric service was unheard of, this Company has anticipated by many years the needs of the people of Texas, pioneering in the application of electric power to industry and in the introduction of now commonly used appliances, such as the electric refrigerator, electric range, attic fans and many others.

It was John W. Carpenter, president of the Company, who, in 1927., called leaders of the industry together to begin a farsighted program or rural electrification in Texas. Subsequently, Texas Power & Light Company engineers designed and built the first "common neutral" rural lines, the type which do not require the use of cross arms, and which materially reduced the cost of rural line construction. This development contributed perhaps more than any other single factor to making widespread rural electrification possible.

The great transmission system developed by Texas Power & Light Company is of inestimable value in the war effort. Because of it; the 18 major Army and Navy installations were able to locate in the area served, and the Company has supplied all the requirements of these military in-

CAPT. R. E. MICHALKA SAVES BELGIAN TOWN

The 92nd Ordnance Company, with the U. S. Forces on the Western front in Belgium, commanded by Captain Rudolph Michalka of Cameron, dropped their normal duties of repairing vehicles recently to successfully stave off German troops attacking the Belgian village in which they were stationed during the December German offensive.

Several attacks were repulsed by these Ordnancemen before they were finally relieved by U. S. infantry who were rushed into the area.

Lt. L. G. Neeley of Fort Worth, and Technical Sgt. Glen Sanders of Burlington, Vermont, aided in the capture of twenty German prisoners during the fighting. The only loss suffered by these Ordnancemen was one man wounded.

Capt. Michalka was recently injured, sustaining a broken leg and is now in a hospital recovering. The accident occured in the line of duty when his jeep was partially wrecked.

He was graduated from Texas A & M College, obtaining a degree in Mechanical Engineering and later was with the Humble Oil and Refining Co. As a reserve officer he was called to duty on February 5, 1942, with the Ordnance Deparment at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland. He has been overseas for many months.

Capt. Michalka is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Michalka of Cameron. The press release above came to The Herald from the Public Relations Office of the Army in the European Theatre of War.

LOCKER PLANT MAY OPEN IN 2 WEEKS

CAMERON GETS LARGEST CENTRAL TEXAS STORAGE

Frozen food lockers at the Cameron Ice & Cold Storage Company are expected to be ready for use within two weeks it was announced by Hayden Lawrence Monday.

Reconversion of storage and freezing facilities at the plant will make available for immediate use 444 lockers for individual use and for limited commercial use but the facilities which have been provided in the remodeling of the plant will make available storage and freezing facilities which will give Cameron the largest such plant in central Texas.

The ice plant for years has been the ranking capacity plant of Central Texas. Forty tons of ice can be made every 24 hours in peak season demand.

To provide freezing facitities under the expansion plan now going into operation additional machinery has been installed. The plant now has 3 large diesel engines.

Quick freezing, a vital commercial need which has come into popular demand in late months, are now provided and in addition Mr. Lawrence has provided a greatly increased capacity for commercial refrigeration.

The whole plant has been brought under strictly modern arrangement. In all there are 13 storage vaults. The plant as recently converted can accomodate 2000 frozen food lockers in addition to the greatly expanded storage facilities, including quick freezing, chilling and curing

SGT. LAWRENCE SCHILLER IS MISSING IN ACTION

Sgt. Lawrence C. Schiller, United Stats Naval Air Corps, is missing in action in combat duty somewhere in the Philippines area.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Schiller, parents of the missing air man, received a telegram at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday from the Navy Department in Washington, stating that their son was missing. The message did not give the date on which he was reported missing.

Sgt. Schiller recently wrote his parents. The letter was dated January 12, and from this it may be seen that the mission on which he was engaged occured within the past two weeks and he may have participated in the action incident to the landings on Luzon or in the subsequent naval battles in the China Sea.

Sgt. Schiller was a radio man on a naval dive bomber and operated from a carrier.

Sgt Schiller has been overseas for about 14 months. He is 21 years old. He volunteered for naval air corps and was trained in California and Florida. He was in California when he embarked for the fighting front in the Pacific.

Additional information will be communicated to the family here as soon as available. Sgt. Edwin Schiller, a brother, is a pharmacist in the United States Army.

SIX ARE HURT IN CAR CRASH SUNDAY

Six persons were severely injured around 1 a. m. Sunday on Highway 77 north of Cameron when their car crashed a parked machine at the Dusek store.

The injured are: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hugater, and their sisters, Misses Ann, Johanna and Mildred and Ben Wellen. The party of six were in a Chevrolet sedan on their way home from the city. The parked car belonging to James Bailey was at the Dusek store. To crash it the Wellen machine had to cross over to the left side of the road. It was explained they were talking and did not notice their car was swerving to the left.

Sheriff Carl C. Black was called to the scene of the wreck. All six occupants of the car were taken in a Marek-Burns Ambulance to the Newton Memorial Hospital. None were believed fatally injured. Most of the occupants suffered severe cuts about the face and body injuries.

Sgt. Clyde Batte, Fortress Crew Gunner, Is Killed In Action In Attack On Cologne In Germany Last October 5, 1944; Six Crew Men Are Prisoners

Sgt. Clyde Batte, flying fortress crew gunner, Army Air Corps, has been killed in action, it was revealed here early Friday in a telegram from the War Deparment in Washington to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Batte, Sr., adopted parents of the flyer.

The telegram gave only the bare announcement that Sgt. Batte had been killed in action. Previously the War Department had reported that Sgt. Batte was missing in action since October 5, 1944, and that his plane was missing from an attack over Germany, the target not revealed.

Sgt. Batte had not yet attained his 19th birthday. He was the youngest member of the crew which took to the air on October 5, 1944, and subsequent information says he went on the mission as a replacement. He was not flying with his regular crew when his ship was shot down. He had trained for duty as a tail gunner and so far as known was performing that duty when he lost his life.

Mrs. R. L. Batte, critically ill at her home here, on orders of her physician could not see anyone. She has been critically ill for several days and news from the War Department that Sgt. Batte had lost his life, has not yet been made known to Mrs. Batte. She cannot receive friends at this time due to her illness.

Shortly after Sgt. Batte was reported missing in action, Miss Leila Lee Batte, by permission of the military authorities, assembled considerable information through relatives of other members of the crew and in part

500 ALLIED PRISONERS LIBERATED ON LUZON

A hand picked group of 126 men of a Ranger Battalion Thursday liberated more than 500 prisoners held by the Japs 70 miles north of Manila in what General Douglas MacArthur said was one of the most brilliant feats of the Pacific war.

Names of the men have been released and should be published within a few hours.

In the operation the Rangers lost 27 men killed. Not a single Jap was left alive. The Rangers killed 500 Japs. They shot away the gates and hacked down the wires and told the Americans they had been liberated.

One prisoner died from a heart attack as he approached the gate to liberation. The men were barefooted and in rags. Those who could not walk were conveyed in army vehicles to Manila.

A few Dutch and British prisoners were in the group but in the main they are Americans.

The men revealed that General Wainright and his men killed 5000 Japs before Corregidor fell.

The prisoners were from the Corregidor fortress. Philippino guerillas helped the Americans liberate the prisoners. There were 37 civilians, all Americans among the men liberated, and 23 British soldiers.

Some of the prisoners had not walked in 18 month and their limbs were so thin the bones could be seen.

Those who have comic books for the boys at McCloskey are asked by Franklin Stewart, Jr., Chairman, to leave them at Stewart's Grocery Store. Franklin Jr., is Chairman for the Cub Scouts and urges every one to help him in collecting these books, so that they can be delivered as soon as possible.

This processing is carried on without haste in pleasant surroundings conducive to mental and physical relaxation.

Before entering the service Sgt. Simecek was employed as stone mason.

Pressing Skirt

Press the center of the back of the skirt first, placket closed, seams even. To shrink a stretched woolen skirt back into shape, use plenty of moisture; press vertically. Place iron gently—then lift up. Place again, overlapping first position. Lift until you get a lively swirl of steam. Remove from board while steam is still rising—careful, don't stretch again—and lay flat; don't hang, until material is completely dry.

REDS DRIVE TO WITHIN 35 MILES OF CAPITAL

Berlin will become another Stalingrad, said a Nazi spokesman who seems to have displaced Doctor Goebbels.

Most of the Nazi big wigs had fled to city of Munich and to Bergstakagen where Hitler's mountain retreat is located.

Berlin will not be declared an open city. At noon today spokesmen for the Germans said that the city will be wrecked if the Ressian advance cannot be stemmed in a few days.

At noon Thursday the Soviet army was in 35 miles of Berlin and Frankfort was brought under siege. The next city is Berlin.

Thus the war had come home to the citadel of German agression. The Germans said they would defend the city, third largest in Europe, to the last.

The Reds had reached the Oder river and the town of Kustrin.

A rumor spread that the German government had fled the capital.

On the Western front the Allies were making steady advances. General Patton's Third Army has captured 4 more towns in a deep penetration of the Siegfred line. General Courtney Hodges' First Army was moving fast and the French had chipped off all threats to Luxeumbourg.

In the Ormoc sector Bullock and his squad ambushed a large number of Japs and completely routed the grounp killing thirty and wounding many more. "The Japs were dug in on the side of a mountain and unaware of our presence. First we shelled them with mortars then threw in a few grenades at them. That got them out of their holes and our machine guns finished the job," stated Bullock.

Says Copper Squeezed Up From Earth's Depth

Wherever copper ore bodies are found, they are associated with cracks, fissures or other types of major breaks in the earth's crust, states Charles Henry White, San Francisco geologist.

The copper-containing materials seem to have been squeezed up from the interior, more or less like toothpaste from a tube. Only, since the material was at high temperatrue, chemical reactions took place with the rocks nearer the surface, so that the ore bodies are not the same minerals that started from the greater depths.

Assuming for the earth an originally fluid state, like that of the sun at present, Mr. White pictures a cooling earth as forming a number of concentric layers or zones, with lighter elements toward the outside and the heavier, less active ones at greater depths. The large part of the earth's endowment of copper, as well as most other metals, would thus be concentrated far beneath the crust.

Despite this fact, however, the copper at or near the surface reaches impressive totals. The reserves of copper in known ore bodies are estimated at about 100,000,000 tons.

Discover Seeing Speed Differs in Individuals

Before the development of modern scientific instruments standard time at the famous Greenwich observatory in England was calculated from the recordings of observers watching a star pass before a telescope. The Greenwich clock was checked regularly in this manner. When the star moved across a fine line in the center of the telescope, an observer reported the time. While watching the star, the observer listened to the ticks of a large pendulum to obtain greater accuracy.

More than a century ago a promising young scientist was discharged by the observatory because his recordings were about half a second too late, says the Better Vision institute. This case aroused much interest, leading to the discovery that considerable variation is in the speed of seeing among different individuals. Some persons, it was discovered, see much more slowly than do others.

To obtain the greatest accuracy possible, the Greenwich observatory then tested one observer against another and applied slight corections to the recordings of various observers.

YOEMEN MEET EAGLES AT GYMNASIUM TONIGHT

Coach Dick Young's Yoemen basketball team meets Hearne Eagles at the high school Gymnasium in a double header here tonight.

This is a district tilt. Cameron has previously defeated Hearne this year but word is that the Eagles are a greatly improved club. The game is expected to be fast and furious and the Eagles are expected to deal the Yoemen plenty of trouble when the game gets under way at 8 p. m. The first game will begin at 7 p. m. A large crowd is expected. Attendance at the games has been good.

Coach Young who has given basketball here, not only a winning team but entertainment which is growing in public appreciation, has introduced a big time innovation at these games. A newly organized band, with 15 members, selected from Francis Cox's famous Yoe High band will play at the game.

The band feature is something only the larger schools are doing. Coach Young has found it workable and attractive here and the people who attend these games are grateful to Mr. Cox.

Safety Record Lone Star Gas Excellent

A record of performing company operations during the twelve months of 1944 with only seven disabling injuries has been made by employees of Lone Star Gas Company's Waco Division of Distribution, which includes Cameron, according to A. P. Rowland, division superintendent. The 12 month period represents the safety accomplishments of 177 employees in the 43 towns composing the division's eight districts who worked 371,152 hours with but seven loss-of-time accidents.

Framed certificates for completing 1944 without a disabling injury will be awarded the following districts: Cameron, Gatesville, Georgetown, Marlin and Taylor. The presentations will be made at the first regular employee saftey meeting of 1945.

"These safety records are particularly outstanding at this time," Mr. Rowlad said, "because they have been accomplished under the stress of manpower shortages and other war restrictions, and when the company has been called on to meet the greatest demand for gas service in its history. The records are the result of Lone Star Gas Company's constant program to train personnel in the importance of safety in their lives and the lives of the men, women and children they serve in performing company operations."

Mr. Rowland pointed out that throughout the company's distribution system of 275 towns, there were only 16 disabling injuries during the year. This represents 1,385 employees working 2,868,136 hours, he said.

Officer's Daring Rescues Flyers In the Balkans

Farish Built Secret Fields For Stranded Airmen; Killed in Crash.

BARI, ITALY. — Allied military censorship released the adventurous story of an American officer, Maj. Linn M. Farish of Woodland, Calif., whose report on his roving in the Balkans in the shadow of Axis troops has been termed by fellow officers one of the most important documents of the war.

An account of his secret work in enemy and Partisan territory was banned so long as he lived, but while on a surveying trip by plane September 11 he was killed, leaving a legend of scores of grounded Allied flyers saved from the clutches of Bulgar and German troops.

Built Secret Fields.

Farish parachuted into the wild Bosnian hinterland September 19, 1943, and passed three 90-day periods in the interior of Yugoslavia in the year that followed.

An engineer, he established many secret airfields from which Allied flyers and others have flown out to freedom. He obtained the assistance of Marshall Josip Broz (Tito) in the rescue of stranded aviators, and in difficult cases he went himself to guide them across the rough country and through enemy lines.

Farish was moved deeply by conditions as he found them in Yugoslavia—the strife between the Partisans and Chetniks, the river of blood where he felt there should be brotherhood in arms. A short time before his death he went to the island of Capri to put his feelings on paper.

The report was prepared painstakingly, with a careful regard for the opinions of other American liaison officers attached, as he was, to Tito's headquarters. The report went to President Roosevelt.

Killing Innocent People.

"In all this welter and confusion of conflicting reports and misunderstandings," he wrote, "a few pertinent facts stand out:

"The senseless killing of these innocent people by each other must be stopped. It is useless now to endeavor to decide which side first did wrong.

"In all this terrible story of misguidance, of rape, death and destruction, one great power that I feel might have prevented it or have stopped it has never been used. The United States of America is mentioned in the same breath with God in Yugoslavia. We were the one nation on earth to whom the people believed they could turn for unbiased, unpolitical aid and advice without having to pay something in return.

"How many hundreds of homes did we enter in which the people crossed themselves and thanked God when they found we were American officers? It would be difficult to express the utter sense of helplessness and frustration which we felt in the face of such complete faith in the ability of our country to right wrongs so evident on all sides."

Customer Was Egged Into This Mess by Waitress

ST. LOUIS. — A waitress was fined $25 in city court because she threw four soft-boiled eggs at a customer—and hit him every time.

Charles W. Ude, the customer, testified he ordered three eggs but was served four by Miss Inez Bock.

In an argument which ensued, Ude testified the waitress told him he could eat elsewhere, and that when he started to leave, Miss Bock started to throw.

The waitress, who filed cross-charges of peace disturbance, said Ude used abusive language which prompted her to throw the eggs. Charges against Ude were dismissed.

General Cornered by Tank, Saved by Planes

NINTH USAAF HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE. — Lieut. George W. Stucky, a fighter pilot serving as liaison officer with an American armored division, told of the rescue of the division's general by Thunderbolts he guided to the target.

The general, whose name was not disclosed, was trapped in a house just oustide the city of Luxemburg when a German Tiger tank rolled almost to the front door.

The general radioed for help and Stucky directed Thunderbolts to the scene. They strafed the tank until the Germans jumped out and ran and the general picked them off with a tommy gun.

Chute Fails to Open, Lands in Bed of Silk

VANCOUVER, WASH. — Second Lieut. John J. Egger Jr. of Seattle told of riding piggy-back on a parachute to earth after his own had failed to open.

He was on maneuvers in England, he said, and the last to leave a plane. After a 100-foot fall, he found himself on top of the chute of a jumper from another plane, he said.

Realizing that both of them would be killed if he held his position, he slid off at 75 feet suffering a leg fracture. The other chutist was not hurt.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 4.

The Golden Text is: "How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God* therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings." (Psalms 36:7.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works." (Psalms 145:9.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation of bestowals. It is the open fount which cries, 'Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.'" stallations, which have risen from 8,000,000 to more than 100,000,000 kilowatt-hours a year since December, 1941.

This Company was able, when a power crisis arose in Arkansas in 1941, to produce, collect and deliver approximately half of the enormous quantities of electricity brought to the Government aluminum plant at Lake Catherine, Arkansas, by ten power companies in eight states, further serving the public interest at the same time by delivering additional large quantities of power to relieve shortage in adjacent areas.

The T. P. & L. Company purchases and distributes to people of Texas a large amount of the power generated by Lower Colorado River Authority and all of the power generated at the Morris Sheppard Dam with the exception of a small amount retained by the Brazos River Transmission Electric Co-operative for use of its own customers. A contract also has been made with the Southwestern Power Administration to distribute all power generaed at Denison Dam on Red River except 5,000 kilowatts set aside for use in Oklahoma.

The three publicly-owned hydro-electric projects recently developed in Texas by the Government now are interconnected with transmission lines of the Texas Power & Light Company, which is distributing a substantial amount of the power generated by these projects. The Company has suggested a broad program of co-operation with the Government to distribute all the power which can be produced at these dams, and to pass on to its customers any benefits derived from such an arrangement.

The Company now supplies all power requirements of the 20 Rural Electrification Administration co-operatives in the area which it serves, doing so at rates approximately the lowest in the nation and lower than those charged REA co-operatives by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

This section of Texas enjoys an enviable position in having abundant electric power for every need . . . and is fortunate in being served by a power company which has always planned and built ahead to provide amply for all normal and emergency electric service requirements of a rapidly growing area. The business in this area will continue normally and will not have to curtail lighting nor discontinue show widow and sign lighting, which would virtually black out the business section of town.

of meats. Of especial importance are the accommodiations for handling perishable ecommodities giving for the first time modern facilities for handling locally produced food products.

The company was fortunate to have had floor space in the large plant to install these facilities and equipment so that actually no new construction was necessary.

There is a large chilling room for receipt of meats. This room is equipped with a track, electrically operated to facilitate handling of meats brought in for storage and curing. A short space away is a room where meats brought in for storage in the frozen food lockers and for curing, are cut and wrapped after they have been salted, prepared for curing. At the rear of the plant a smoking house is being fitted where sausage, hams and bacon are to be cured. The plant for years has been curing meats. In one vault alone there is an enormous quantity of meat already in curing process as well as storage.

Two outside entrances have been provided for access to the frozen food lockers and the storage vaults. The main lobby is the approach to the main storage entrance. When the main door is opened one enters an ante room and from this room three doors lead into three storage sections, one of which now has installed 444 frozen food lockers ready for use when the date arrives for opening the plant. Mr. Lawrence hopes to be able to open in two weeks and will make the announcement soon.

The frozen food lockers are standard in size 30 inches long, 22 inches wide and 18 inches deep and will accommondate 300 pounds of meat. Other foods are to be stored also. The locker can be used for taking care of many items. For instance, if you want fresh roasting ears or strawberries or what not for Christmas, it is a simple matter of storing them. The lockers will rent for $12.50 and $15.00. The locker room now equipped is 28x25 feet and plate glass mirrors will be installed at the end of each passage between the locker stacks. Immediately adjoining are three other vaults which can and it is hoped will be soon filled with lockers.

Meats stored are first prepared and frozen under 20 below temperatures.

Off the main lobby an office has been constructed where customers may go to transact their business incident to use of the lockers.

In the new arrangement commercial storage has been greatly expanded. Mr. Lawrence hopes to have the co-operation of local slaughter houses where renters of the lockers may have meat slaughtered. For the present slaughtering will have to be done by the individual and by the commercial killers of meat.

Already demands are coming in for lockers, many from other cities. When the 2000 capacity locker space has been filled Cameron will have the largest such plant in central Texas, including vault space available for further expansion and for storage, quick freezing and curing.

this information was made available to The Herald early Friday to piece out the yet incomplete story of what happened. It can now be said that Sgt. Batte's plane was in the large formation of bombers that attacked Cologne, Germany on October 5, 1944.

The plane was piloted by Lt. Birckhead of Memphis, Tenn., who had already flown 32 combat missions and had only recently returned to England after a rest in America. The co-pilot of the plane is Lt. Arthur D. Christian of Girard, Kansas.

Allowing for possible errors in reporting the yet incomplete information, it would appear that 6 of the crew members, including the pilot and co-pilot are prisoners of war in Germany. Three members of the crew had not been heard from, including Sgt. Batte.

According to information here Friday the ship was disabled after it had flown in on the target and disposed of bombs. As the pilot turned homeward to his base in England all engines of the plane were disabled. It was thought the pilot sought to land the ship in friendly territory but could not do so. The ship was believed to have been brought down somewhere in the Ruhr Valley in Germany.

When the ship was disabled and began to lose altitude a number of parachutes were seen in the wake of the stricken ship. It is presumed from information that the pilot landed the ship. The ship was not in flames. Enemy flak fire was very heavy over the area.

Sgt. Batte may have been killed before the plane was disabled, or could have lost his life in the crash landing, or in making the parachute jump.

Until complete details are available the exact manner in which he lost his life, must be awaited by Sgt. Batte's family and friends.

Sgt. Batte was reared in Cameron. He volunteered for the air corps before he became 18 and was called up, first training at the Black Land Air Field in Waco. A graduate of Yoe High School, Sgt. Batte played center for the Yoemen football team and was one of the best linemen ever to wear the maroon and gray.

Teacher Pay Hike Passed by Senate

Austin—After almost two hours of debate over two propsed substitute amendments, which were defeated by top-heavy vote, the senate today passed its first piece of major legislation of the 49th session, to raise the salaries of some 15,000 rural aid teachers approximately $300 annually.

The vote was 26 to 0.

The measure was similar to House Bill Three, which was passed by the lower house body in the opening days of the session. The exception was the senate reduced a provision for $60 maintenance per teacher to $30. The bill will now go back to the house for concurrence.

Last night in Thorndale Coach Dick Young's Yoemen stopped the pace setting Bulldogs 24 to 22 to end that team's 14 game winning streak.

Coach Young said: "Nothing but praise can be said of Thorndale," for they have a great ball club. They were undefeated previous to meeting the Yoemen. They had defeated every team in the county, including Rockdale and Milano. They had also won the Granger tournament.

McMillan, Butts and Summerlin were stars for the Bulldogs while the entire Yoemen team played great ball. Kennedy and Graham turned in another great defensive game while Gerick, Eans and Jimmy Marek racked up the points. Alvin Gerick with 10 points led the field.

BOY SCOUT WEEK FEBRUARY 8 TO 14

National Boy Scout Week will be observed February 8 through February 14.

In line with its theme for the year, "Scouts of the World—Brothers Together," the Boy Scouts of America will help restore the Boy Scout Movement in the Philippine Islands when they are liberated. Ten thousand dollars granted to the Boy Scouts by the "God Bless America Fund," in memory of the late Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, one of its trustees, will be used to initiate the work.

The "God Bless America Fund" was created by Irving Berlin to receive and dispose of all of proceeds arising from the composer's song, "God Bless America." Its trustees now are Chairman Herbert Bayard Swope, consultant to the War Department, Commander Gene Tunney, U. S. N. R., and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who succeeded to her late husband's position as trustee.

For many years the Boy Scouts of America gave direct supervision to Scouting in the Philippines. Later with its help, Boy Scouts in the Islands launched their own local administration.

Scouting in the Philippines was a subject close to the heart of General Roosevelt, who was at one time Governor General of the Island. The late General Roosevelt, who died July 12th of exhaustion induced by overwork at his field camp in France, was a Vice President of the Boy Scouts on whose National Executive Board he served 25 years.

At the time they were invaded, the Philippine Islands had 36,201 Cubs, Boy Scouts, and adult leaders.

See DDT Potent In Malaria Fight

Expect New Insecticide to Prove Powerful Weapon Against Disease.

WASHINGTON. — The prediction that the new insecticide DDT—now restricted to the armed forces—will be a potent weapon against malaria after the war was made by an army doctor who made first disclosure of the powers of DDT against malaria-bearing mosquitoes, says the Chicago Tribune.

"The world-wide postwar picture of malaria will be greatly changed by the advent of DDT," Maj. O. P. McCoy of the surgeon general's office said in an address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"DDT must not be regarded as a miraculous agent which will suddenly do away with the malaria problem, as some extravagant press reports have suggested," he said. "It does, however, offer promise of revolutionary methods of control which ought eventually to improve the malaria situation even in hyperpendemic (highly affected) and poverty-stricken regions."

Up to now, while military doctors have revealed that DDT has been successfully employed as a louse powder in the control of typhus fever, they have said only that they were "planning" to employ the insecticide as a possible weapon against malaria mosquitoes.

What DDT Can Do.

Here's what McCoy said DDT can do against nature's deadly dive bombers:

"It is more poisonous to mosquito larvae than any substance heretofore known—consequently it can be used in small amounts with resultant saving of time and effort in larviciding operations."

(Larvae are newly hatched mosquitoes which are in the wingless, wriggling form. They live in swamp waters and other fetid pools while waiting to sprout their wings. Before the advent of DDT the best means of killing them was the use of such substances as paris green, sometimes sprayed from airplanes.)

McCoy said the most promising application of DDT for malaria control "is its use in spraying the habitations of native carriers" of the disease in order to kill adult mosquitoes which might bite the people and pass the infection on to others.

War on Mosquitoes.

"When DDT in kerosene solution is sprayed on interior surfaces," he said, "a residue is left which will kill insects lighting on the treated areas for several months. Since the destruction of infected adult mosquitoes constitutes the most effective break in the chain of transmission of malaria, this usage, with its long lasting effect, offers great promise for control of the disease in many tropical regions where it has been a practical cause of poor health and poverty."

McCoy declared that while return of malaria-affected troops to this country might make possible the introduction of the disease into areas now malaria free, a more important hazard is the possible introduction of dangerous mosquito vectors by airplanes.

"Unceasing vigilance is necessary everywhere," he said, "to prevent the spread of insect vectors by aircraft. A commission composed of representatives of the army, navy, and the United States public health service has been investigating the new hazards of disease introduction resulting from modern advances in transportation. Quarantine regulations will be strengthened where indicated."

Smithsonian Will Show Statues of Noted People

WASHINGTON.—The Smithsonian Institution soon will place on display a wartime collection of bronze statues of 50 public personages, including President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet.

The collection of statues, made by sculptor Max Kalish, were a gift to the institution from W. M. Kiplinger, editor of a newsletter.

The statues are made about two feet tall and portray the figures at full length. Metal in the statues came from old bronze statues melted down.

Yanks Get Close Shaves With Nazi Razor Blades

PARIS. — American troops who left their post exchanges miles behind as they swept across France are obtaining badly needed razor blades, matches and numerous toilet articles from Germany. Post exchange officers gathered the captured items and placed them on sale, hopeful that American supplies will catch up with front line troops before the stock is depleted.

Production Ban Lifted On Food Service Items

WASHINGTON.—The WPB lifted its ban on the manufacture of several commercial food service equipment items, among them barbecue machines, dish warmers, potato chip fryers, warming ovens, waffle irons, plate warmers, and peanut roasters. WPB also removed distribution controls from commercial cooking and plate warming equipment.

ZHUKOV ARMY 55 MILES FROM GERMAN CAPITAL

Amid a growing crisis for German arms the Red army of Mashal Gregory Zhukov was within 55 miles of Berlin at noon Wednesday and despite frantic Nazi general staff efforts there seemed no possibility that the Russian advance could be halted.

While Zhukov's army was within almost artillery range of Berlin another Red army was 68 miles East of Berlin.

A broadcast from Berlin at noon Wednesday made the frank admission that some Germans want to give up the struggle. The spokesman called them cowardly creatures.

Dr. Ley, German spokesman and labor leader, declared that Berlin will be defended to the last.

The war picture was decidedly blacker by the hour for Germany. At long last the tide has turned and the suffering and privation the booted legions of Hitler had forced upon other countries is the heyday of their march, had come home in double doses to the German people. Millions of refugees were fleeing in the path of the Russian advance. The Reds were distributing no pamphlets promising an easy peace to the Germans. Instead the brutalities of war were being brought to bear upon this agressor nation which plunged the world into war in 1939.

Many old people and children were succumbing to the exposure on roads leading out of Poland back into the Reich as the Red army rolled on with increasing fury. A British radio report at noon said 5 million German civilians are in the path of the Red attack.

Meanwhile it was reported that General Eisenhower has 47 Armored Divisions massed on the Western front and significant gains were being made in advance of what many believed is certain to be an all out offensive by the Allies.

General MacArthur has made new landings on Luzon. The 38th Infantry Division landed late Tuesday without the loss of a man and no ships or planes were lost.

Winston Churchill, British Prime Minister and Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, are both absent from the House of Commons in London, lending added proof to reports that Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt are converging on their meeting places, variously estimated to be in Italy, Russia or North Africa.

Sgt. Wallace Culpepper Promoted; Has Won the Coveted Air Medal

Flying his first mission from an England airbase, he participated in an attack on Orienburg, Germany. Then being transferred he participated in an attack on Vienna, Austria on November 18, flying from an airbase in Italy.

He has been awarded the Air Medal for "Meritorious achievement in aerial flight against the enmey."

REDS REACH BRESLAU AS PRUSSIA CUT OFF

The Red army under Marshal Konev was in the outskirts of Breslau at noon today as another Red army pushing rapidly across the Baltic extension of Germany had completely isolated East Prussia and trapped some 350 thousand German troops.

A Moscow communication said that East Prussia is the scene of German army routs and that many of the battle fields are covered with Germans, facing complete destruction were trying frantically to flee the Russian trap.

At one point the Red army was within 125 miles of Berlin.

The city of Breslau was being blasted by Soviet artillery. The reds were also fighting in the streets of Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

Unrest and strikes have broken out in Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia.

In Luzon MacArthur's army had besieged Clark Field 15 miles from Manila. So far 6000 Japs have been killed on Luzon while 657 Allied soldiers have been killed.

The Allied armies are advancing on the Eastern front while the Germans continue to retreat. The First and Thrid armies have taken 9 towns in the past few hours.

Risked Health in Bold Experiment

Two Doctors Volunteered for Study of 'Bends.'

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Two doctors who voluntarily exposed themselves in the interests of science to repeated excursions into thin air at 42,000 feet simulated altitude, developed active tuberculosis of the lungs.

This tuberculosis, it was reported to the Aero Medical association, was not caught directly in the altitude experiments, but was caused by thin air reopening old, long healed tubercular spots in their lungs.

The report was made by Drs. Alvan L. Barach, Artell E. Johnson and Colter Rule of the college of physicians and surgeons, Columbia university. The doctors making the experiments were not identified. Both since have recovered.

The physicians were studying the "bends," a painful condition which often hits men at extreme altitudes and caused by nitrogen bubbles forming in the blood and tissues.

The chokes, an affliction of extremely high altitude flying, were also described to the medical association.

The chokes are coughing, something like asthma. Of themselves, they are not dangerous, but they endanger combat aviators because a choking man cannot keep on his oxygen mask.

Scientists of the college of medicine of the University of Cincinnati, which has made studies of the chokes, said they apparently are due to bubbles of nitrogen forming in the throat membranes due to aeroembolism—a high altitude trouble somewhat like the deep sea "bends."

Allies Execute 16 Italian Spies Hired by Nazis

ROME. — The Allies have executed 16 German-hired Italian spies and "many more" have been sentenced to death recently, it was revealed.

Since the beginning of June, well over 100 enemy agents have been arrested, mostly in Rome. Some of these already are on trial and other hearings are scheduled in the near future.

An Allied statement published in the Italian press warned that Allied intelligence has the names of many Italians who now are engaged in spying or who plan to help the Germans. It urged such persons to give up now.

"Those who have been executed did not give themselves up," it said. "All those who have given themselves up are still alive."

Captives Beat Up Nazi For Writing to Father

OMAHA.—A German prisoner of war at the Scotts Bluff, Neb., camp who wanted to write to his father, a resident of the United States, was severely beaten by fellow prisoners, who declared the father was "not a good Nazi," the Seventh Service command announced.

The prisoner was a member of a group captured near Cherbourg.

"Two or three of the other prisoners told him that he couldn't write his father because the father was not a good Nazi," the army said, "but the prisoner insisted on writing and was beaten so badly he was taken to the camp hospital."

789,539,390 Letters Have Gone by V-Mail

WASHINGTON.—The army and navy postal services have transmitted 789,539,390 V-mail letters to and from members of the armed forces overseas since the system was established in mid-1942, the Office of War Information stated.

Deliveries were at peak for both services in April with the army delivering 63,638,405 V-mail letters to the navy's 56,060,703. The army has handled 689,536,939 letters since its service was established while the navy, which began operations in March, 1943, has delivered 100,002,451.

Plans are under way to establish a large V-mail station in France this fall.

Hatfield-McCoy Feud on Again, but Against Hitler

ON THE ROAD TO PARIS.—The Hatfields and the McCoys were feuding again recently, but not with each other as U. S. patrols reached the vicinity of Paris and the suburbs of Versailles.

They were Phillips Hatfield, Sprigg, W. Va., and Homer L. McCoy, Avondale, W. Va., who said they were kin to the original feudists.

"This time we got a mad on against Hitler and are not quarreling among ourselves," said McCoy.

REDS DRIVE HARD TO PINCH OFF PRUSSIA

Soviet troops, lancing closer to the heart of Germany Friday night had seized the big Silesian city of Hindenburg, reaching the Danzig free state frontier and by German account, stabbed close to the border of Brandenburg province, in which Berlin is located. The nearest point to the German capital on this frontier is 91 miles due east.

A Russian spearhead trapped the battered remnants of possibly 25 German divisions in East Prussia by driving through to the Baltic coast. The Moscow radio said that besieged Breslau, Germany's eighth largest city and capital of Silesia had been "isolated," with direct communications into it cut by the Russians.

The Russians also were reported to have crossed the upper Oder river defense line.

The Russian units which neared Brandenburg province had raced around Poznan on the direct route through Western Poland to Berlin, the Germans said. The Second White Russian army which had encircled East Prussia was threatening Konigsberg, its capital, from the rear.

The Soviet information bureau said in a special bulletin that 295,000 Germans were killed in all the eastern fronts between Jan. 12, when the big offensive opened, and Jan. 24.

Pressure on Germany also was increased in the West as the U. S. Ninth army, springing into action for the first time in six weeks, and the British Second army stood at the gateway to the industrially important Ruhr valley, having cleared the Germans from all Siegfried line positions west of the Roer river on a 40 mile front only 25 miles from the city of Dusseldorf. Opposition was reported light.

Despite the loss of Clore who is out with a shoulder injury from the Temple game, the Yoemen were able to overcome this handicap.

Billy Joe Eanes made many fine shots to score 19 points while Jimmy Marek hooked four field goals to score 8 points. Graham, Kennedy and the Gerick Brothers, Alvin and Otto, played stout defensive ball.

Henderson and Altimore, both starting for Hearne, each scored 6 points.

The Swing Band from Yoe High under Francis Cox played between havles and during time out periods, entertaining one of the largest crowds of the year.

REDS IN 75 MILES OF THE GERMAN CAPITAL

At noon Saturday two Red Armies had penetrated to the border of Brandenburg within 75 miles of Berlin with new gains being made all along the entire front.

The Russians said the current offensive has cost the Germans 381,000 in killed and captured.

Significant new gains were being made on the Western front by the Allies. There was no action in Italy.

Superb defensive play by Howard Kennedy for the Yoemen stopped Jones of Rockdale, the star, never letting him get a shot at the basket.

The Yoemen score was also kept low as Eanes and Marek, sharp shooters for Cameron, fouled out and sat a great deal of the time on the bench. Graham, lanky Yoemen guard played a good floor game as did hig Otto Gerick who turned in some good defensive ball.

Last Minute Decision Wins Pastor's Praise

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. — Guests arrived for the fashionable wedding of Miss Matilda Horn, and James William Wilson III, Farmville, Va. But at a dinner party Miss Horn's father announced that the couple had decided they didn't want to be married after all. "I admire their courage," the pastor remarked.

One-Armed Blind Girl Weds Lover

Travels Half Way Across Country for Ceremony.

KANSAS CITY, KAN. — A 21-year-old sightless girl with only one hand, who came here by train, unaccompanied, from her home in Reedsport, Ore., and an army private just returned from three years overseas, were married recently.

The bride is Miss Vina Baldwin, small blond with a pleasant smile. The groom is Pvt. Foster Pierson, 30, Independence, Mo. The ceremony was in the offices of Judge Clark E. Tucker at the county courthouse.

The bride wore a wedding dress of blue silk with a white flower on the shoulder—a gift from Pierson while he was in Hawaii. They plan a brief honeymoon here, and if he can arrange it he will accompany her to the home of her parents in Oregon before returning to active duty at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Upon her arrival here, she cried, "It's you, it's you," as she recognized Pierson's footsteps.

The bride has taken care of herself for more than a year, living alone in a trailer and working as a dishwasher in a restaurant. In addition to keeping house, washing, ironing and cooking, she canned 13 dozen quarts of fruit, vegetables and fish this year.

The couple met five years ago while Pierson was working in her home town of Camas Valley, Ore. It was there when she was four years old that the bride lost her sight and hand while playing with dynamite caps.

Yank Patrol in Holland Finds Deserted Baby

WITH AMERICAN AIRBORNE FORCES IN HOLLAND. — Pfc. Fred Wilson of Marion, Ind., carried a deserted baby in one arm as his squad returned from a patrol a few miles into Germany.

"Boy, was it heavy by the time I got back," he said.

The soldier explained that he found the infant, a good-looking youngster, lying in a crib in the cellar of a house in a village which otherwise was completely deserted.

"I couldn't understand how anyone would leave a kid behind, especially in a house not likely to be hit by shells from either side. So I brought it along."

He turned the infant over to a Dutch nurse.

Capt. William Schmees of Fairview Village, Ohio, said his men had groused for a couple of days because so little happened, but then the Nijmegen area flared into one of the hottest spots with the fight for the town and its Waal river highway bridge.

"It was fairly heavy going," said Captain Schmees. "The boys are seeing plenty now, and they're satisfied."

Something About This Soldier—Three Wives

CARLYLE, ILL. — James King's wife thought it was strange when her husband took off his uniform as a second lieutenant in the army air forces when he returned to Wendover army air field, Utah. He told her he was switching to a buck private's uniform so he wouldn't have to be bothered saluting the noncommissioned men.

Suspicious, the wife, who was Miss Reva Baty, 20, of Carlyle before a one-week courtship during King's furlough home, investigated.

The Wendover commanding officer confirmed her suspicions her husband was a "buck private." State's Attorney Joseph Schlarmann also learned whirlwind courtships are no novelty for Private King; in fact, he had been married five times before he met Miss Baty. Only the first and fifth wives obtained divorces, according to Schlarmann.

Miss Baty has started divorce proceedings.

Jap Sniper Is Beheaded By Low-Flying Avenger

PEARL HARBOR, H. I. — Naval Lieut. Raymond Globokar, Chisholm, Minn., found a new way to eliminate Jap snipers during the battle for Tinian when his low flying Avenger observation plane decapitated a Jap perched in a tree.

The plane was skimming along at tree top level, Marine Capt. Grady Gatlin, an aerial observer, said. "I felt the plane strike something," he said. "I looked back to see what was left: A wooden platform and a piece of tin. To my surprise a Jap sniper was falling out of the tree."

The plane's crew, the report said, did not spot the sniper until they were almost upon the tree. Then, instead of zooming, the pilot decided to go right through.

CRISIS IN EUROPEAN WAR IS APPROACHING

A crisis in the war in Europe was approaching Tuesday as Red Army units pushed to within less than 90 miles of Berlin and reports verified by German broadcasts admited baffling developments on three fronts where the Russians are pushing ahead unchecked.

Allied planes were dropping pamphlets over Germany calling upon the German people to surrender, promising the people they will not be held responsible for war crimes.

The Russians were dropping shells.

Belief persisted in Washington that President Roosevelt may have already left the Capital for a conference with Stalin and Churchill and that the big three may issue a joint appeal to Germany to surrender.

Adolph Hitler has declared that Germany will never surrender.

Rumors were coming fast, one that the German government has fled Berlin for Munich, also that the military leaders have told Hitler the struggle is hopeless.

Mounting Allied presure on the west wall was giving the Germans grave concern. The Third Army under General Patton had crossed the Our river into Germany at two points.

Mrs. Bob Wiley had as week end guests her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Wiley and children of Bryan and Tack Woody of Houston.

Mrs. Connie Nichols of Austin has returned home after spending a few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cryer.

Soft Drinks

The fact that there are more than 1,250,000 places in the United States where a soft drink can be bought indicates the universal appeal of this commodity. In 1943 approximately 18,000,000,000 bottled drinks were sold. Of these, about 15 per cent went to the armed forces and another 15 per cent to industrial plants. Hospitals and similar institutions were important consumers but most of the remaining 70 per cent were distributed through retail outlets, about half being consumed on the premises.

Test Perfume

Before buying perfume, place a drop on the skin and whiff it. Taking a whiff out of a bottle will put you off the scent because alcoholic gases collect in the neck of the bottle. Then too, chemicals in the skin mix with the perfume, giving it a slightly different fragrance for each individual.

Handy Hint

A small curtain rod attached to the underside of the sewing machine or table is very convenient for holding spools of thread within easy reach and prevents tangling.

NO "Brown-Out" HERE..

THE area served by Texas Power & Light Company does not come under the War Production Board's recent order curtailing the use of electricity for outdoor illumination . . . because this area has plenty of power through the use of plentiful fuels. The principal power plants of TP&L Company use natural gas as fuel and not coal or other scarce fuels which the new WPB Order is designed to conserve.

The present abundance of electric power in this section arises from the long-range planning and building of generating and transmission facilities for serving home, farm and factory throughout a large and progressive area of North, Central and East Texas.

Not only does TP&L Company supply all the electric power needs of military installations, war industries and the civilian population in the territory it serves, but its transmission system is the means of gathering up available electric energy, not only from its own generating stations, but also from other privately-owned plants and from Government-owned hydro-electric plants, and transmitting this energy by the replacement method to other areas of the nation where the present emergency exists.

. . . but there's STILL NO ROOM for WASTE!

While there is plenty of power for all needs of this area, there is still no room for waste. Electricity is a vital war necessity . . . but, fortunately, there is no need to deny yourself the use of all the electricity you need. Just don't waste it . . . turn off lights and appliances when not in use . . . take good care of your present electrical appliances so as to prolong their life. By not being wasteful, you give a hand to other industries . . . you not only help conserve raw materials, but you help free the manufacturers to devote themselves and their facilities more wholly to the war production program.

Use the Electricity you need . . . but need the Electricity you use! . . . and don't forget to BUY WAR BONDS

Former Resident Now Lives in Wisconsin; Gets 50 Below There

Jesse Buffington, former resident of Milam county, now living at Hillsdale, Wisconsin, writes to The Herald that he wants to read the paper. He has been living there for 17 years.

Mr. Buffington is engaged in dairy farming. He is 71 and does all his work with the help of his wife. His father was the late pioneer, A. J. Buffington. "I thought I could read something about some of my folks and old friends in The Herald," said Mr. Buffington. "It gets real cold up here in Northern Wisconsin where I live. I have seen it 50 below zero. We don't see the ground for about 6 months in the year, snow all the winter and we have to keep our stock in the barn all the winter. We have large barns, the land is good and we make lots of feed per acre."

LEO JACKSON IS NEW ATHLETIC COACH HERE

Leo Jackson of Tahoka, has been given a contract by the Cameron School Board, to coach athletics in Yoe High School. He will succeed Dick Young who as principal of the high school will devote his entire attention to teaching.

Mr. Young asked the board some time ago to release him. Jackson visited Cameron with W. T. Hanes recently to look over the set up and was given a contract. Mr. Hanes is to become superintendent this year.

Dr. Clifford G. Swift, member of the Board, Monday brought to The Herald a clipping from the sports column of the Sunday Waco News-Tribune as follows:

Mack Turner of Lubbock Avalanche has the following: "It was with much regret that we learned last week that our good friend, Leo Jackson, was leaving Tahoka, and moving on to what appeared to be greener fields. We had known of his intentions of leaving for some time, but had hoped that somehow, he would see fit to change his mind. Jackson seemed pleased with the set up at Cameron, after making a trip to the central Texas city to look over the new field. Cameron, one of the state's top Class A schools, has an athletic set up of grid field, house and gymnasium that ranks with the best in the country, Jackson reports. After seeing the way the athletic set up at Tahoka has been built to a peak by W. T. Hanes and Leo Jackson, we wonder what the same team will produce at Cameron where they will again be working in the same old double harness. Jackson will coach the Cameron High grid team and Hanes will be superintendent of the Cameron Schools.

"It is useless to say that South plains sports will miss that team. But the big question that remains to be answered is the men who will step into the posts made vacant by Hanes and Jackson. With all due respects to the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, the city is a small one. We don't know so much about the other civic ventures and working of the city, but we do know that Hanes and Jackson have made Tahoka "big city minded" when it comes to athletics. We can't think of a better tribute to pay to a couple of sweil fellows."

Hang Brushes

For efficiency and for the sake of conserving the life and value of cleaning tools, brushes, brooms, mops, etc., should be hung neatly from hooks placed high enough in the closet so the bottoms escape the floor. Shallow shelves, arranged in step-formation, are better than wide shelves for holding bottles and other containers of cleaning products, as well as soap bars and packages.

Strange Romance Theme of "Laura"

Can a man fall in love with a woman whom he has never seen?

That's the absorbing question posed in 20th Cntury-Fox's new psychological mystery-drama, "Luara," starring Gene Tierney, Dana Andrews and Clifton Webb, and opening Thursday at the Cameron Theatre.

A thirlling and suspenseful story of a strange and perilous experiment in love—and murder—"Laura" is set against the dazzling background of New York's sophisticated pre-Pearl Harbor New York cafe society. In it, Gene Tierney is seen as the chic advertising executive whose every afterhours move becomes an item for the city's chatter columns.

Men loved her enough to die for her—enough to kill her! How unattainable, she became desirable beyond all desire, and how a fateful love for her became the most fearful thing that ever happened to a woman, makes for one of the most thrilling and suspenseful screen stories of the year.

Since "Laura" is an escape story of a new type—escape into the mad luxury of pre-war cafe society life—the film provides glamorous Gene Tierney with 28 dazzling coustmue changes, thus providing a veritable fashion show of no little nostalgic appeal.

Also 1eatured in the brilliant cast of the film produced and directed by Otto Preminger, are Vincent Price and Judith Anderson.

Based on the best-selling novel by Vera Caspary, "Laura" was written for the screen by Jay Dratler, Samuel Hoffenstein and Betty Rainhardt.

It's great to be here...Have a Coca-Cola

...or helping a soldier feel at home

When he's back on furlough, it's the little things a soldier left behind that he looks for. In three words, Have a Coke, much of his old life comes to mind. For Coca-Cola was part of his days after school or after work, with the gang and with his girl. A happy remembrance of carefree times. Ice-cold Coca-Cola holds a warm and friendly place in American life. And it should have a special place in your icebox at home. Wherever Americans go, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of our friendly way of life.
